It was a night like any other night, dark… 'cos it was…. night time.

Back then I was a down-on-my-luck private eye, prone to long monologues, when this mysterious dame walked in.

She slid a photograph across my desk

"What's this?" I ask

She tells me "It's the most delicious condiment that has ever existed. Franks Red Hot –The Perfect Blend Of Flavour and Heat

"Franks Red Hot" said the mysterious dame

"Franks Red Hot?" I asked

Yes that's what I said "Franks Red Hot"

I know. I just wanted to get the brand name into this commercial a few more times.

"I need you to find it" she pleaded.

Shouldn't be hard I thought. I knew it was in Coles and Woolworths.

So I took on the case….Franks Red Hot –I put that shit(Bleep) on everything

I put Franks Red Hot on everything. Even those red herrings they keep serving up in BBC crime dramas. Makes it easier to swallow.

And this morning. This morning I put it on my ..."cereal"

Why? Because it would be a crime not to.

I could feel it in the wind,...literally... because things on the case were getting spicy.

It was Franks Red Hot – I put that shit (bleep) on everything

It was time. Time to close the case.

I rounded up the suspects in one room and started monologing, going through one by one 'til I looked her in the eye.

"Is that a burrito in your pocket?" She asked

No it's this. It's this rather unsatisfactory end to the whole wild spoof chase.

I passed her a bottle of Franks Red Hot and the authorities took her away
